

And here below a quick race report if you need it;

Saturday morning. Would I be able to give it a go like I wanted to? Told the wife this one would be short and sweet!! Lol

Quite honestly I did nothing much different. Its just that every lay line turn and turn around any corner was spot on for a change and a good thing too as with these short races every 10 yards extra sailing due to an extra jump add up to some loss in time. And in this one time came down to tenths of seconds.

I had closed the pc after seeing that Team Germany had taken the race, only to go back in later to see that the server had adjusted the times and positions and made me first. So, maybe the race committee had to look at a "Photo Finish"!!! It was that close!

Well sailed Team Germany and kroppyer, a really tense one indeed!

Jawz / August 2014