

Timed races are all about timing :)

I think that I raced the course six or seven times, mostly because it was fun.

As the wx changed on the slider I think that we all were waiting for the right time and with Seacarts it's not always about windspeed, the angles are almost more important and with angles follows distance.

The better angle, the shorter distance and I was lucky to pick almost the right moment.

I made a little mistake at the southern rounding and that may have cost me first place, on the other hand I was lucky to win second place by the margin of just 1 (one) second.

About tactics; Max VMG on TWA all the time!

I would like to take this opportunity to say that I think that this was the ultimate TIMED.race.

We were lucky with the wx, but a TIMED-race should always be possible to sail within a maximum of 4-5 hrs.

robert1 / August 2014