

This race turned out to be far bigger challenge than I expected.

Going south of Victoria Island was not a clear choice for me, if the wx would be different then the podium would be different.

I stayed up some nights to check the wx updates when there were weak winds and at the end of the almost a week long race I was in a group of sailors including Hirilonde, fastpassage39 and rumskib.

The last night wx at UTC 22.30 was a bit different, after that I stayed up and managed to gain some NMs.

At the end of the race rumskib and I was pretty close, rumskib took a shorter way to finish and that paid off for him.
