

Last year we did this race in a team, but after two days we were tired and bored and decided to put two=0 and abandoned the race.

This year I decided to do the race alone and to finish it.

First night the race was very interesting, sailing very close with sassy, smo, sadler, mustang, etc, but I think they were very tired and reaching Jungfrund I was first, when Hew decided to put a direct course and go to bed, result was that in Sottunga South I had an advantage of more than ten nm. At that moment I thought " if you can administrate this advantage you can get a good result".

But things are not so easy, and was necessary to watch continuously the correct way looking for JakeS (that is so crazy like myself, as Hmm said) until Korpo, when he decided to put dc's and go to bed (with bbq result of course).

After that, winds were more benevolent with competitors and I was seeing like zero was reducing distance until between Askö and Rödlöga the gap between us was 0.6 nm.

But in one moment he decided the wrong way and that permitted me to arrive Rödlöga buoy with a little more than 3 nm of advantage. Reaching FSAR there was a brutal change of wind in force and direction and I needed more than two hours to do the last two miles, but finally I finished first.

Resuming: six bbq, some little wrongs in manoeuvring, a lot of time watching the way and competitors without sleeping and I won the race.

Of course I am very happy for winning this race sailing against so good competitors.

Congrats all for racing
