

I was following evolving winds, did see Jake on run and then Winston and decided to make my only run. Did round marks by hand and layline turns on DC trying to keep perf loss minimal and did succeed quite well in turns except last mark where boat jumped to just before mark, waited for next jump and command executed after second boat jump .. without that extra might have been different result :)

Finished second, two seconds after Jake.

Now it was all about how next boats will do, surprisingly Rumskib did not score top and I was already almost partying but then came Sassy and beated Jake two seconds and me four.

Rumskib and Winston went for another run but WX window was closing ..

Fin-Swe match it appeared to be as next came atlet, then StIngFI. First timed-podium. Me and Jake been playing same boat F18 in Archipelago Raid just before obviously had nothing to do with success in timed :)
