

Last leg of this wonderful SWR 2014-2015.

I wanted another win to compensate with the very bad overall result. So I pushed hard since the beginning looking to my competitors (kenza, rumskib overall).

I sailed pretty well in the English Channel where I managed to gain a small lead on the fleet. At this point I knew that the race was going to be decided by the nightly passage of the Dover strait. And I made a decisive mistake by adding an extra gybe soon after I crossed ahead of kenza. Wind went right and kenza managed to lay mainland and to gain some fraction of a mile on the fleet.

At the rounding in Den Haag another terrible mistake as I anticipated the turn and I needed to go back and cope with a 11% perf. loss in the manoeuvring.

Rumskib was close, even ahead, so the last 12hrs were intense and I managed to lead by few seconds on the line, securing the second place on the podium!
