

The second race of the fourth quarter of 2015, a series of SYQ4.

The previous I win, but with great difficulty.

This greatly simplifies the task at hand.

Winning is not required. It is important to keep the lead on points. In the worst case - are not far behind.

With such an installation I went to the start.

And then it all developed very interesting :)

In the first third of the race, I found myself in the midst of several confrontations with nacrr, Smo, peskasail.

Some managed to win, some lose.

The crucial point came around 2015/11/09 06:30 UTC. Changing course to Isola Favignana.

Separation from nacrr was only 0.04nm. But different strategies.

nacrr went further north. I prefer to stick to the calculated trajectory. And was right.

Later, it chatting was simple and clear everything is explained:

2015/11/10 00:04:34 UTC

nacrr: What does kenza know that I do not?

bonknhoot: he talks to the cat, nacrr. his cat is equipped with AI, which continuously redesigns itself and so has approached by iteration a full simulation of the SOL simulation of wind patterns based on a cubic grib of vectors on a grid of lat, lon, T nacrr: Nah ... I think he does not sleep ... ever. Full 24 over 24 h of dedication. ;-) nacrr, I sleep. But only for a Safety areas. Sometimes even sleep at night. But it is rare for more than 4 hours. :)

After Isola Favignana, I'm not attack.

Summing summary:

nacrr - always a dangerous and fast.

Smo - sometimes the fastest.

Saint_Lucia - a great race!

Many thanks to SailOnline.org for a race!

kenza /November 2015