

Oh, how hard it was to wake up at 05:00 MSK (Moscow Standard Time).

Preparing for the race was not. I woke up and immediately started. After starting the thought was to not sleep and not make a BBQ.

Once passed Tasman Island I could calm down a little bit - the first part without the BBQ. But I was in a mediocre position.

Until the middle distance – then it was all about the pursuit and control of karriv and rumskib. These are the main competitors in the winnings on points in two races. It was difficult.

In the last third of the race, the search began for an optimal position to approach the finish line. In Sydney we with longreacher have been waiting for a very interesting wind. If it was difficult earlier, it is now very difficult. But I managed to find a nice solution.

The result: a dream come true. It IS possible to win Tasman Double series!

Both races were complex and quite different. In both races, participants strong and struggle was hard. Great fun to compete with such experienced opponents.

Many thanks to the volunteers of Sailonline.org for the opportunity to participate in this wonderful race!

best regards,

kenza /January 2016