

Having not been able to start in good winds in timed races in long time Smo was happy to see starting opportunity in almost homewaters.

Best starting time seemed to be very close to weather update and I was going to delay start time for that, but seeing some top Solers start made me start just before WX, but later than many, which seemed perfect timing.

Made some rock roundings and corners on DC and some hand steered, managed to do those decently and when closest contestant Kipper beached (maybe due to some tactical chat-disturbance by Gilles?) Smo could end top and no other weather window opened.

Thank you, hoping to get some sailing IRL this summer too :)
