Jeanneau, who have been building sailboats since 1970 and speed- and powerboats since 1957 are today perhaps best known for their range of spacious Sun Odyssey cruising yachts.

However, their more Spartan Sunfast racing 'cruiser' range is also of considerable renown, and in particular among the short-handed fraternity.

The Sunfast 3600, launched in 2013, is currently (2018) the range's flagship and a fine performer. She's a downwind flyer with the SOL polar performance based on a mix of manufacturer's and ORC certificate data.
