

The Tall Ships Races 2019 – Race 1

(3rd Race in Sailonline's four-race Tall Ships Series 2019)

Well, there is not so much to report on this first track in the tall ships races, other than finally a #1, yippie!

Basically i thought that the trick would be to #1 at the first mark, so a proper twa after the mark would give a descent advantage, and with rafa, skov , wr around it would only be tricky in the last tack before the finish. And there WR actualy made a good move, but with this polar the slide towards the finish line was a smooth ride home.

So, not very spectacular, but a #1 is always good start for the Tall ship series (insert bombastic music here) world domination victory !

best,

Dikke