

Well, what a race!

It had all the ingredients of an I.R.L. experience, with a full spectrum of wind intensities & variations, particularly along the coastlines.

As the race progressed, I learned that with this boat selection, V.M.G. is not always the answer!

Sleep deprivation as with most of SOL's races played a large part (especially if you're SOTP), with some of the challenges of this course, given that the sailing angle variations moved quicker than most of the fleet, particularly towards the finish.

So, well done! to the boys up in front & congrats! to 'the mob' positioned around me.

Unfortunately, 'the fat lady' can only sing IRL, so the best she could do for SOL is -

"Ozzi! Ozzi! Ozzi! --- oui! oui! oui!"
