Finland's Finngulf was born out of the success of a one-off design for the 3/4 Ton World Cup in 1981. Håkan Södergren's very original design featured innovative aluminium bulkheads connected to a tubular spaceframe. This boat became the FG34 production yacht.

Unusually in 2009, Finngulf turned to Farr Yacht Design for a new 43 foot flagship to complement its fleet of well-established quality cruiser racers. SOL premiered the FG43's polar a year later in its version of the Round Suursari off the Finnish south coast, and she has since been raced online on several occasions, as can be seen at the link below.
