SOL RACE RECORD

SOL inducted the Shanghai Far East FRP Boats Company's FarEast 28R into her Boathall of Fame back in 2017, and (now) in 2020 is pleased to add the 31R to her racing pantheon. A broadly similar craft to her smaller sister, the 31R is simply much more wellie of everything – 21.m and 1200 Kg of keel instead of 1.75m and 600Kg, trying to keep 65 m² of white sails and 120 m² of gennaker upright, instead of 48m² and 80m² – except for hull weight, which being all Carbon constructed is actually 20% lighter.

Like the 28R designed by Dutch Naval Architect Simonis Voogd, it is not surprising then that her polar is even more extreme than little sister's, featuring a top speed in excess of 19kn with the true wind well abaft, and the apparent square. Race, race, race!
