

Palermo-Montecarlo 2022 – Report by Mediterranean

From the start of the race a group of boats including me, Mirek, Tarass and ITA 10627 choose the left side of the race field and this made it possible to gain some advantage.

Then started an interesting gybe fight and the correct timing put my boat at the lead of the race. Lead that I was able to keep until the passage between Sardina and Corsica.

In the following hours, the fleet passed through light wind conditions and finally entered the more constant wind...and at this point, I discovered why they call Ita10627 the "Professor".

He made the final tack in perfect time and was able to gain a little margin on me, Tarass and Mirek. Thanks to this perfect strategy he was able to catch the first place, then there was an interesting fight with Tarass to gain the second place and luckily I was able to finish less than one minute before him.

Best regards and Happy new Year!
