

J-109

GENERAL ARRANGEMENT

POLAR DIAGRAM

ACTION PHOTO

SOL RACE RECORD

When, towards the end of the 1980s, asymmetric spinnaker sailing began to migrate from ultra-high performance skiffs to keelboats, J-Boats followed the trend, launching the J-80 as a direct competitor to their hugely popular J-24, to, c 10 years on, follow this up with a new flagship J-133 and a more mid-sized J-109.

Whereas, magnificent though she was, the J-133 did not stand the test of time, the J-109 over the decades that followed has gone from strength to strength, and with active J-109 fleets spread all across the planet, in 2025 it was high time that Sailonline too had a fleet of J-109s all her own.

She will undoubtedly be as popular online as she is in real life, which the racelist at the link below will over time surely attestify.

Racelist