

KEY LIME PIE-GATTA 2025

After a good break, I return to Sol for a race and set off on the Red Eye to restart slowly. My initial routing the day before takes me north of all the islets. Then the starting grib takes me south.

But I keep my mind set on heading north, and reassured by the new grib, I head straight for this route around Long Key. Having no time to attempt the adventure through islands like Kastor and Rafa, I decide to go further north with a little more wind, but a longer and less dangerous road.

The grib changes follow one after another, complicating the road with unstable winds until we round Key West. The end of the race remains stable, and then there's no chance of making up time on the leaders.

Congratulations to Kastor for his great victory and to Skovser for his beautiful second place."

Adlaem / July 2025