

Red Eye – Myth of Malham 2025 - Race Report by KaSToR

The last race of the holidays, KaSToR had to get used to more traditional boats again, and it was aboard a Fareast 31R v2 that it had to cover the 250 nm course.

It took just over 28 hours to complete the race.

First a direct tack, then a close-hauled tack during the night to pass the Eddystone Lighthouse buoy. The rankings began to take shape with a fierce battle between PepsPV5, Alp317, CriticalHippo, rafa... and a few others.

The following day was spent sailing downwind with very close positions, and it was the Solent that served as the judge.

My approach, passing between The Needles and Wight, allowed me to make few gybes while staying south of the channel.

PepsPV5 and Alp317 were fighting for second place behind me. That's when a raging hippopotamus appeared and ate them both.

Congratulations to CriticalHippo, Alban and Jeff. But rafa and the others did not disappoint, and they made a strong comeback in this hellish channel.

Have a great end to your holidays, those of you who are still on them :-)
